

Elm Capital advises Future Business Partnership on its majority acquisition of Best.Energy

16 April 2026 – Elm Capital is pleased to have advised Future Business Partnership ("FBP") on the capital raise supporting its majority buy-out of Best.Energy, a UK headquartered provider of tech-enabled energy management solutions. The investment reflects continued investor conviction in FBP's distinctive approach as an impact-driven private equity firm, linking its economics to both commercial performance and measurable ESG outcomes.

Best.Energy's mission is to elevate energy efficiency to the forefront of the Net Zero transition. Through its proprietary hardware, software and AI-enabled services, businesses can reduce energy usage and eliminate energy waste through real-time monitoring and remote control of electrical equipment at an individual asset level. This allows the company to deliver meaningful cost savings with an immediately cashflow-positive payback on investment, alongside a measurably lower carbon footprint.

Over eighteen years, Best.Energy has grown from a UK start-up into a global energy management player, with technology deployed across thousands of customers in more than 70 countries and high-profile clients spanning manufacturing, hospitality, retail, multi-site leisure and the public sector.

Elm Capital acted as exclusive placement agent to Future Business Partnership in connection with the transaction.
